

	Would your insurer be interested in developing and offering a professional indemnity product to cover planned homebirths?	If not, what would it take for your insurer to become interested?	Other comments.
[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]	No.	Not interested.	Not consistent with MDA National's core business.
[REDACTED]	No.	Not interested.	Lack of reliable data is an issue. Concerned with the level of possible non-compliance with accepted clinical guidelines, leading to a perception of high actuarial risk.
[REDACTED]	No.	Do not consider that acceptable re-insurance would be available. Therefore, not interested.	Data concerns. Would need several more years of credible data before a reliable assessment of actuarial risk could be undertaken.
[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]	No.	Not interested.	Lack of data is a major problem. Unlikely to be able to secure appropriate re-insurance on a commercially viable basis.

Note: Information as at 24 January 2011.

[REDACTED]