End of an era

Dear CDI readers and contributors,

In this final publication for 2018, I wish to acknowledge the contribution that Prof Peter McIntyre has made to Communicable Diseases Intelligence (CDI) over the last 14 years as he departs us to embark on a new journey.

Prof McIntyre first joined the Editorial Advisory Board in 2004 before being appointed as Chair in 2012. During his tenure, Prof McIntyre has provided invaluable expert advice to the editorial team, has been a strong advocate for CDI and has been actively involved in the progression of CDI from a printed quarterly publication to its current form as a fully digitised open access journal.

Prof McIntyre’s contribution, dedication and willingness to support innovation will be greatly missed. On behalf of the CDI editorial team and the Editorial Advisory Board, I wish Peter the best of luck in his future endeavours.

Yours sincerely

Cindy Toms
