

Do you or someone you know take opioids?

Are you aware of the risk of overdose?

At least 3 people die each day in Australia from opioid overdose. Most deaths are from unintentional overdoses, or when opioids are combined with alcohol or other medications.

Naloxone saves lives by reversing the effects of an opioid overdose and helping the person breathe normally again until an ambulance arrives.

For more information on how to access free naloxone talk to a healthcare professional or visit health.gov.au/our-work/take-home-naloxone-program

Australian Government

