

Cervical cancer is preventable.

A Cervical Screening Test
could save your life.

NATIONAL CERVICAL SCREENING PROGRAM

A joint Australian, State and Territory Government Program

Australian Multicultural
Health Collaborative

Women and people with a cervix aged 25–74 should have a Cervical Screening Test every 5 years.

Your doctor can do the test or you can do it yourself – self-swab is simple, quick, and private.

www.ownit.org.au

Book your screening appointment with your doctor or health clinic today