

Australian Government
Department of Health and Aged Care

There will be new ways of working in aged care from 1 July 2025

Access information to help you understand your obligations under the new Aged Care Act including:

- The Statement of Rights and Principles
- New whistleblower protections
- New opportunities to provide feedback
- Higher expectations of employers to recognise your expertise and listen to your opinions.

Under the new Aged Care Act, you will work in a better-regulated system. This means you can prioritise delivering safe, high-quality care for older people.
