COVID-19 vaccinations in 2025: Disability Service Provider update

Topping up COVID-19 protection

COVID-19 is still in the community and can be dangerous for people with disability.

Protection provided from the COVID-19 vaccine decreases over time. Vaccination in 2025 gives additional protection against severe illness from COVID-19.

Recommendation

In 2025, all adults can consider one or two COVID-19 doses depending on their age and health. This means:

- Adults aged 65 and over, or between 18 and 64 who are severely immunocompromised, are eligible to receive a COVID-19 vaccination every 6 months based on their individual health needs and recommended to receive a COVID-19 vaccination every 12 months.
- Adults aged over 75 are recommended to receive a vaccination every 6 months.
- All other adults are eligible to get a COVID-19 vaccination every 12 months.
- A useful tool to assess individual requirements can be found at: COVID-19 booster eligibility checker | Australian Government Department of Health, Disability and Ageing

More information can be found in the Australian Immunisation Handbook

It is safe to have COVID-19 and annual flu vaccines at the same time.

Your support is important

Vaccination combined with COVID-safe behaviours are the most effective tools in keeping people safe from serious illness.

As a disability service provider, your support is crucial in ensuring people with disability are vaccinated against COVID-19 if they choose.

You can:

- Ask your local Primary Health Network for help finding suitable vaccine providers, including on-site vaccinations if needed.
- Arrange a visit from a Commonwealth COVID-19 vaccination service if you can't use other primary care vaccination pathways.
- Support your staff to get vaccinated alongside residents during in-reach vaccination services.
