Aged Care Act 2024, Training and Education Catalogue

This catalogue lists learning modules and education resources developed by the Department of Health, Disability and Ageing and the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission (ACQSC) to support aged care providers and workers to build knowledge and skills related to the Aged Care Act 2024 (the Act). Resources are grouped by key learning areas under the Act, making it easier for providers to identify workforce learning needs and select suitable training and education options.

The catalogue supports flexible, multimodal delivery. For example, providers may choose to use informal learning materials in team meetings, newsletters or existing training programs instead of, or alongside, eLearning modules.

Providers and workers can access department-developed eLearning modules through Alis, the department website or their organisation's LMS. While all options provide access to the learning content, completion records and certificates of completion are only available to learners who complete training through Alis, where applicable.

Note: Not all learning areas in this catalogue will be relevant to every role, and required learning will vary depending on the responsibilities of different worker groups. This catalogue should be considered a starting point and useful tool for providers to map their workforce against the learning areas and identify which training is most relevant. The training in this catalogue is recommended, not mandatory. Providers are encouraged to supplement it with training that reflects the needs of their workforce and services. For guidance on how to use this catalogue, refer to the Guide to Creating a Workforce Training Plan – Building Workforce Capability for the Aged Care Act 2024.
