MBS Review

Update, September 2019

Overview

The independent Medicare Benefits Schedule Review Taskforce (the Taskforce) has been working since late 2015 to review the more than 5,700 items on the Medicare Benefits Schedule (MBS) to better align them with contemporary clinical evidence and practice, and improve health outcomes for patients. To date more than 70 clinical committees and working groups have reviewed items across the MBS through a clinician-led process involving more than 700 clinicians, consumers and health system experts, providing detailed advice to the Taskforce on how to improve the MBS.

In May 2019, the Taskforce completed the first-pass review of all MBS items. More than 40 reports have been delivered by Taskforce to Government since the commencement of the Review and more than 15 of these reports have had recommendations implemented by Government. Over 20 reports remain to be finalised.

The Renal Report resulted in the creation of a new item (13105) enabling First Australians in remote areas to receive vital dialysis in their communities. The dialysis is provided by nurses, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practitioners and Aboriginal health workers with appropriate training. Stakeholders have reported that this change is already making a difference to health of the people in these communities.

The 1 November 2018 changes to Diagnostic Services for Sleep Disorders resulted in a decrease in adult Level 1 laboratory sleep studies with a comparatively higher number of adult Level 2 home-based sleep studies. The changes better triage patients to the most suitable test, noting that patients who have high pre-test probability for uncomplicated obstructive sleep apnoea (OSA) are generally suitable for Level 2 home-based sleep studies.

The Taskforce held its 40th meeting in August 2019. The Taskforce considered 17 reports for endorsement to Government. The outcomes of the Taskforce meeting will be made available on the Department's website once they have been finalised.

Six draft reports, from the Cleft Dental Services Working Group, Consumer Panel, Ophthalmology Clinical Committee, Otolaryngology, Head and Neck Clinical Committee, Paediatric Surgery Advisory Group and Psychiatry Clinical Committee, are now available for public consultation on the Department's website.

Consultation is open for sixteen weeks (until December 20) and interested parties are welcome to provide submissions by emailing MBSReviews@health.gov.au.
