COVID-19 VACCINATION

Keep your disability workforce up to date by circulating this alert widely in your organisation

Disability provider alert

21 September 2021

Information on current hubs offering vaccination services

There are many vaccination clinics/hubs now operating across states and territories.

A listing of all clinics/hubs with publicly available booking information can be found at the end of this alert. The list is updated each week with new hub sites highlighted in each state and territory. Click here to see the list and make a booking.

If you have a vaccination clinic/hub that we can promote please email our inbox: COVID19VacTFDisabilityServices1A@Health.gov.au so that we can include it in this publication.

Please distribute this information to your workforce.

Information about state and territory based clinics and how to book

The Department of Health's Vaccine Clinic Finder contains all information on where you can be vaccinated across Australia. In addition, each state and territory has their own information on where you can be vaccinated. Follow the links below if you want to read more about available clinics in your state or territory:

Disability Gateway

People with disability who need assistance booking a COVID-19 vaccine or need free, fact-checked information and advice about COVID-19 can contact the Disability Gateway on 1800 643 787.

The Disability Gateway provides a single point of contact for people with disability and is free. It can help families, carers and support workers too. We strongly encourage you to share information about the Disability Gateway on your website and through your newsletters and correspondence.

To use the Disability Gateway, go to Disability Gateway or call 1800 643 787. The Disability Gateway phone line is available Monday to Friday, 8am to 8pm AEDT.

People who need information in a language other than English can call the Translating and Interpreting Service on 131 450 and ask to be connected to the Disability Gateway.

People who are deaf or have a hearing or speech impairment can call the National Relay Service on 1800 555 677 and ask to be connected to the Disability Gateway.

Workplace vaccinations

Making vaccines available in workplaces will add more channels where people can receive a vaccine easily.

The process has now commenced to source vaccine providers who will administer and participate in a workplace vaccination program. As part of the expansion of Australia's COVID-19 vaccination rollout, businesses will soon be able to team up with vaccination providers to administer the jabs to staff at their workplaces. More information about this program will be provided as it becomes available.

Social media addressing vaccine hesitancy

Comedian Tim Ferguson didn't think twice about getting his COVID-19 vaccine

'I am arming myself because of my family, my friends, for audiences that I'm playing to. But also because I work with a lot of people with disabilities and some of them are far more susceptible to the severe symptoms that a condition like coronavirus can bring.'

Getting vaccinated is our best defence against COVID-19 and the best way forward.

First Things First

The Australian Government has launched the next phase of the COVID-19 campaign to encourage eligible Australians to be vaccinated against COVID-19.

Campaign materials can be found here. The campaign will be tailored for Indigenous and culturally and linguistically diverse audiences shortly.

Resources to support people getting vaccinated

The Department of Health encourages disability providers to have vaccination resources available in Easy Read format and in other languages for people getting vaccinated. These resources cover all aspects of the vaccination process including preparing for COVID-19 vaccination and the period after the COVID-19 vaccination. You can download and print these from the Department of Health website.

For more information call the National coronavirus and COVID-19 vaccination helpline on 1800 020 080.
